For many families, talking to their kids about race and racism can be difficult. How do I start this conversation? Are they too young for this topic? Should I wait until they are older? What is appropriate for me to say? Will I scare them by talking about this? These are just some of the questions that might discourage families from bringing up this topic with their kids.

Join our webinars to better understand different forms of racism, how kids learn about race and racism, and how families can start talking to them about it in a safe, inclusive, and supportive way.
